S. Korea vows retaliation

Now is time to act, not talk—Seoul

MAILLIPO BEACH, South Korea—South Korean President Lee Myung-bak on Monday vowed retaliation against any further provocation by the North after it attacked an island last week as anger grew at the government's weak response.

Lee made his first address to the nation since Tuesday's attack as US and South Korean warships took part in military maneuvers, prompting concern in regional power China and threats of all-out war from North Korea.

He also visited US forces in Korea to thank them for the show of force.

"North Korea will pay the price in the event of further provocation," Lee said.

"Attacking civilians is utterly an inhumane crime that is strictly forbidden in a time of war... Now is the time to show actions, not a hundred words," he added. Hours after Lee's nationally televised speech, South Korea's military announced it would conduct new drills—including live-fire exercises—in Yeonpyeong Island on Tuesday morning, and issued a warning: even low-speakers for residents to take shelter in underground bunkers by 9:30 a.m.

Artillery rounds will be fired into the western south-west of Yeonpyeong, 300 meters North Korea, an official at the Joint Chiefs of Staff said. He spoke on condition of anonymity citing department policy.

Similar live drills by South Korean troops one week earlier triggered the deadly bombardment of artillery by North Korea that decimated parts of Yeonpyeong, which lies just 11 kilometers from North Korean shores. Two Marines and

Studies find Philippines a disaster waiting to happen

By Winston A. Marbella

AS CLOSE as 200 countries began yesterday a two-week meeting in Cancun, Mexico, to try to forge an agreement to curb climate change, several international agencies warned that the Philippines remained a disaster waiting to happen—with Metro Manila possibly going under water after just a heavy downpour. As in earlier meetings in

Copenhagen, Denmark, and Bali, Indonesia, a legally binding international agreement is not expected in Cancun to put a cap on carbon emissions scientists believe to be causing global warming and worsening natural disasters. But at least a preliminary road map is expected to be drawn up to replace the aging Kyoto agreement expiring in 2012.

As 15,000 government delegates, environmentalists, business leaders and journalists gathered in the Mexican resort, the Philippine government appeared to be moving forward and much to avert more catastrophes from impending natural disasters in a desperate race against time in a dangerously

Editor's Note: For 25 days, we will be telling stories about the journey to mark the paper's 25th anniversary on Dec. 8, 2010. Some are 1980s-style stories but reporting on how we've changed; others are more recent; the day stories that became old-fashioned types; others are turning-point stories that have changed the landscape of history; still others, big or small, make the heart and soul leap.

But whenever, the Inquirer will tell you the story.

Both sides now: Senate's 'Lazarus,' 'Demi Moore'

INQUIRER was a relief after this photo of a younger House Defense Committee came out.

I HAVE covered two of the most reliable political games of our time and even their only too human sides.

After a falling out with President Cory Aquino, her defense chief, Rusto Tavares (RPS), joined the senatorial race and won a seat. He was the lone opposition senator.

The Aquino administration had accused Tavares of involvement in the so-called "God Save the Queen" plot to assassinate Cory Aquino but had not been able to pin him down. Tavares allegedly funded the plot with the Reform the Armed Forces Movement (RAM) led by then Col. Gregorio Honasan.

There were the Edsa Revolution that had ended a military against distant Ferdinand Marcos in 1986, which led to a peaceful revolution that toppled Cory as president.

Two years later, the senator was linked to a series of coup d'etats by rightist rebels that slowly crippled the Aquino administration.

The government filed charges of rebellion against Tavares. Earlier that year, he had been indicted for alleged involvement in a series of coup d'etats by rightist rebels that slowly crippled the Aquino administration.

Some 40,000 Filipino workers in Taiwan work mostly in electronics assembly factories of giant electronics firms like Acer and ITE Building, which supply parts for Apple Inc. They receive monthly wages of up to $700,000, Gao said.

PCSO to decide on lotto prize cap

EVEN if the Philippine Charity Sweepstakes Office (PCSO) is now under Malacañang, the agency will be the one to decide on whether it would put a cap on the prize payouts.

President Aquino's spokeswoman, Erlinda Lacerda, said it was not the Office of the President (OP) but the PCSO board which would act on the proposed cap as a policy decision.

"It will be up to the PCSO board to determine whether to change the rules on the prize payout," Lacerda said.

The official scrapped off a statement of intent to disband the PCSO from the Department of Health (DOH) as the OP made the government face the "biggest gamble."

Palace rules out sending of troops to Korea

MANILA (AP) — President Benigno Aquino III has ruled out the deployment of troops to South Korea in the event war breaks out there with North Korea and said that the government could only provide humanitarian assistance, like disaster relief, in the event of a conflict.

Aquino's spokesman, Edwin Lacierda, said that while South Korea had an "inherent right" to defend itself, the Philippines could "only provide humanitarian assistance, like disaster relief, in the event of a conflict that we have entered into."

Lacierda was reacting to a statement over the weekend by South Korean President Lee Myung-bak that the Philippines has a mutual defense agreement with the United States and could be compelled to respond to any Korean military aggression.

Lacierda said there were "no mutual" and "no mutual" in the Armed Forces of the Philippines and that was why "we have to be realistic about our capabilities."

He said that the government could only provide "humanitarian assistance" like disaster relief, in the event of a conflict that we have entered into.

The United States and the Philippines have a mutual defense agreement with the United States and could be compelled to respond to any Korean military aggression.

A prosecutor's delight

[illegible]

Granting there was too much haste to build and construct ZMA and its various support systems, we submit that a civil case should have been filed against them (not abuse of power) from the start, regardless of how much the delivery of the arms and ammunition to the Americans to the general, sufficient to make and all the way up to the President's (not an actual personal) meeting of the war.

LETTERS

Only with the filing of such a civil case can we compel the attendance of GSN and her husband here to adversarially witness. That should be a prosecutor's delight to watch them squint and try to conceal their way out of the sworn testimony required. In due, no amounting has been made of the entire intent of a duly weaponized defense by the Attorney General to the defendant.

And by what? What, it's hard to say, are you who the Algonquians' towered into decline of his deformed the most hated people in this country says (January, 17, 22, 18) in so many words, he said it was his business there to defeat civilization no matter how badly they may appear to be, and all that goes. He showed you too to the chase. We are tempted in paragraph that follow. The price was right! He spoke in the master-jointed Andros which had such as emerged from are actually paid one of the ill-gotten wealth. The Arago again had been called in the Algonquian prison under the name of the Columbus. Another thing to have their transience and transience makes looking off.

Federer shows who's best

SONGON—Roger Federer gave Rafael Nadal little chance to mount a challenge to the 2008 sporting heroism of the greatest players of all time, winning his 10th consecutive title, 4-3, 5-6, 6-1, Sunday.

"I was able to stay offensive. Rafael was never that long," said Federer, who has also won the tennis crown seven times in Australia and Shanghai. "I think the biggest factor was consistency."

On Saturday, Nadal gave more than three hours and three sets to his opponent, Andy Murray, to reach the final of the tournament for the first time.

"I know I don't take anything away from his great victory. Because it was magnificent. It's not, physically, it was a huge tournament. Winning the last two against top-10 players is never easy," Federer said.

Federer was an incredible 92 per cent of the points played on his first serve in the final of the ATP World Tour Finals, and lost only 12 points to serve to the center main.

Nadal, the reigning Wimbledon and US Open champion, was able to break Federer once in the second set, but he appeared in the sixth match point.

Iyler brings case to UN

By Julia M. Rueda

ROAD rage suspect Jason Iyler has accused the Philippine government of violating his human rights before the United Nations.

In a complaint sent via courier last week to the Committee on Civil and Political Rights of the UN Human Rights Council in Geneva, Switzerland, Iyler said he experienced "inhumane and degrading treatment" at the hands of local authorities.

The five-page complaint, a copy of which was given to the Inquirer, went on to cite several violations of Iyler's rights, which, according to him, were guaranteed under the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights in which the Philippines was a signatory.

He asked the UN to "demand the Republic of the Philippines to take corrective measures to prevent and respond [to] human rights."

Iyler has been detained at the Quezon City jail since April for allegedly killing Renato Victor Baldo Jr., the son of a former police officer, during a traffic altercation in Quezon City on Nov. 30, 2009.

He was identified through the diplomatic license plates of the Honda Civic which he was driving when he shot Baldo Jr. The license plates were assigned to his sample, the British Diplomat Stephen Pollard.

Alleged abuse

Iyler also accused the agents of the National Bureau of Investigation (NBI) of violating his human rights when they "bashed, pushed and physically harassed" him as they were arresting him.

Also included in his complaint was the Quezon City judge handling his case, Judge Alexander Balon, whom he said ordered his

Net 'hot money' inflow breaches $3-B mark

Investments should translate into long-term, job-generating ventures

By Michelle Y. Reyes

THE FLOW of "hot money" into the Philippines surged further this month, breaching the $3-billion mark, as investors continued to bet on favorable economic prospects over the short term.

Data from the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas showed that the net inflow of foreign portfolio investments from the start of the year to Nov. 12 reached $3.44-billion.

Gross inflows amounted to $56.18 million, while gross outflows totaled at $6.75 billion. Most of the inflows are invested in stocks, while others are placed in bonds and bank deposits.

From January to November last year, the net inflow of foreign portfolio investment reached only $372 million.

"There is significant amount of liquidity globally, and part of the liquidity is going to emerging economies like the Philippines," BSP Governor Ricardo Trillanes Jr. said.

Foreign investors have been placing funds in the Philippines and other developing economies in this because of perceptions that the region would continue to drive growth in the world economy.

While the increase in "hot money" inflows highlighted investors' confidence in the country's economic situation, the portfolio investment flows could be viewed as short-term, job-generating investments.

They said investments in stocks, bonds and bank instruments are short-term in nature and only serve to strengthen the peso—a development that will adversely affect exporters.

Trillanes said there should be a sustained push for investments and that there should be viable, attractive investment opportunities to make the growing liquidity more productive.

"Growth is already growing. However, we have this huge liquidity available in the system for deployment into productive activities, and so there is a need for further measures to back these," Trillanes said.

He said there should be enough incentives to encourage investors to invest more of the funds they are putting in deposits.

Trillanes hoped that the Aquino administration's Public-Private Partnership (PPP) program will help spur demand for and attract investment of bank funds.

GSIS to review global investment program

By Clark C. Domingo

THE STATE-OWNED Government Service Insurance System is set to review its global investment program to decide whether it must bring back all the funds it invested abroad or place them in other emerging markets in Asia.

The GSIS has a $100-million exposure in global markets—a result of the private fund's overseas diversification strategy initiated in 2008.

The statement was originally an at $1 billion, for the GSIS, under its new president Robert Vergara and chair Daniel Linares, suspended the disbursement of the additional $100 million set by the previous board.

"The new director will be when we should conclude with the global investment program," Vergara told the bureau. "We will review the whole program in the first quarter of 2011," he said, noting that the directive was in line with the three-year mandate given to the global fund manager, now handling the GSIS overseas program.

Vergara said the previous GSIS board had already given the green light to invest an additional $400 million in markets abroad. However, he said, the new management decided to suspend the deployment

Hi-Precision Diagnostics accredited for International Standards

Hi-Precision Diagnostics (HPD), one of the country's most trusted medical diagnostic laboratories, has recently been accredited by the Department of Trade and Industry's (DTI) Philippine Accreditation Office (PAO) for ISO 15189:2007 (PNS ISO 15189:2010).

ISO 15189:2007 is the international standard specifically designed for medical laboratories. Its stringent requirements ensure that laboratory tests results are accurate and done using processes that are at par with the best in the world, the staff is competent and well trained, and machines are always in optimum condition.

Acknowledging the continuous pursuit of quality through accreditation, Hi-Precision Diagnostics has also acquired the latest state-of-the-art systems and technologies, resulting in more efficient and accurate testing due to decreasing manual interventions.

HPD continues to elevate the medical laboratory industry by offering specialized testing services not commonly available in the Philippines through exclusive partnerships with reputable institutions in other countries. Previously hard to find tests such as Polymery Testing, Immunohistochemistry, and Polymerase Chain Reaction (PCR) are now available in Hi-Precision Diagnostics' 17 branches, affiliates and satellites in Manila and Cebu.

To top it off, HPD was the first in the Philippines to offer Online Results where clients can access results anytime, anywhere through its website at www.hi-precision.com.ph. They also offer Consultative Summary Results, which is a single page, side-by-side comparison of all test results for better health and wellness monitoring.

As a result of the accreditation and various innovative features that HPD offers, it's no wonder that patient and client confidence is growing not only locally but internationally as well. It is also a testament to how HPD is indeed, leading in quality diagnostics healthcare.

Peso remains competitive vs peers, says BSP

By Michelle V. Reyes

Local currency also less volatile than counterparts

THE PESO remains competitive, with its appreciation and volatility also the most of the year compared favorably with those of some competitor currencies, according to the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas.

From the start of the year, the peso, which closed at 44.38 against the US dollar, in its February registered an appreciation of 3.1 percent versus the greenback.

Over the same period, volatility of the peso averaged 2.4 percent.

"The peso is still competitive. It is not among the most volatile currencies rate among those that have appreciated the most," BSP Governor Benito S. Aquino III said.

Data from the central bank showed that the peso's year-to-date appreciation of 3.1 percent was driven by the following: 11.1 percent for the Thai baht; 9.9 percent for the Japanese yen; 9.7 percent for the Malaysian ringgit; 9.2 percent for the Australian dollar; 1.6 percent for the Hong Kong dollar; 2.5 percent for the New Zealand dollar; 5.9 percent for the Taiwanese dollar; and 3.3 percent for the Indonesian rupiah.

Although appreciation is a consequence of strong inflows of foreign capital entering a country, it dampens competitiveness of a country as it makes export goods more expensive in dollar terms.

The rise of the peso has created concerns among Filipino exporters, some of whom have urged the BSP to intervene in the foreign exchange market by buying dollars to defensibly weaken the peso.

However, Aquino said there is no basis to perceptions that the peso has lost competitiveness, explaining that in the is actually lower than the appreciation of other currencies.

Moreover, the central bank chief said that despite perceptions that the peso's appreciation have become a double-edged sword, it remains competitive given that its volatility has been tempered when compared with other currencies.

The 2.4 percent volatility of the peso for the year is much compared with the following: 4.9 percent for the Australian dollar; 4.7 percent for the euro; 4.5 percent for the Japanese yen; 3.7 percent for the New Zealand dollar; 3.4 percent for the Thai baht; 3.3 percent for the Malaysian ringgit; 3.1 percent for the British pound; 3.1 percent for the Korean won; and 2.9 percent for the Singapore dollar.

The volatility of the former peso, the Mexican dollar and Indonesian rupiah, however, are lower at 2.2, 1.8, and 1.6 percent, respectively.

One of the objectives of the BSP is to help temper volatility of the peso as this can become disruptive to business activities. A relative stability can make it difficult for export and import businesses to plan their budgets.

PIATCO expresses full support for P-Noy's PPP framework

MANILA, Philippines (DATE) - Under a new leadership, the Philippine International Air Terminals Co., Inc. (PIATCO), expressed full support for President Benigno S. Aquino III's thrust for the public-private partnership (PPP) framework that would pave the way for the settlement of an almost 12-year old dispute involving the opening of the Ninoy Aquino International Airport (NAIA) Passenger Terminal 3.

"We laud the President's initiative and sincere intention to fast-track the implementation of infrastructure projects through his launching of the PPP in its global perspective to regain the confidence of the international business community. We particularly note President Aquino's inclusion of tourism objectives in the PPP list, not only in terms of increasing tourist arrivals but also improving the quality of aviation service and infrastructure to support national development goals. We join our colleagues in the industry who are determined to extend its fullest support for the effective implementation of the PPP. The success of the President Aquino's PPP program would be measured in the immediate resolution of the NAIA Terminal 3 dispute. Notably, the government is fully aware of the overcapacity of Terminals 1 and 2 and the deteriorated state of Terminal 1, thereby, the urgent need to open NAIA Terminal 3 as the Philippines' gateway that is competitive with all other neighboring international airports, and in line with the open-sky policy of the present administration", as strongly expressed by PIATCO's newly-elected president JENNIFER ENANO-BOTE.

In the President's speech at the opening of Infrastructure Philippines 2010, he mentioned the need to rationalize the country's network of airports, expand runways and terminal capacities in tourist hubs, and recognize international aviation as a major driver for tourism, trade and employment and over-all development.

PIATCO built the NAIA Terminal 3 and owns said facility until it is paid by the government for the cost of constructing the terminal. The government and PIATCO are working to fast-track the resolution of pending court cases for the immediate opening of NAIA Terminal 3 for the gradual transfer of the international foreign carriers from Terminal 1 to Terminal 3 as announced by Gen. Angel Honrado, General Manager of the Manila International Airport Authority. The permanent resolution of Terminal 3 issues is a genuine showcase and would serve as a milestone for the success of the PPP's early implementation.

"PIATCO is open to all options available for the immediate and just resolution of pending court cases. PIATCO welcome's the immediate opening of NAIA 3 via a consortium/joint venture with foreign and local investors under mutually accepted terms to achieve the objectives of the PPP framework. We are optimistic that the President would be able to resolve this long-standing case by year-end as his Christmas gift to the Filipino people," PIATCO's new president reiterated.

The determination of the amount of 'just compensation' that the government needs to pay PIATCO is pending before the RTC in Pasay and is expected to be resolved at the earliest time, if possible before the year ends.

Wrangler®

As scores down-bowled - Wrangler, with its rich heritage has always embodied the philosophy of freedom and the idea of being true to one's self. This season Wrangler captures the spirit of personalization, DIY creativity and independence in its Fall/Winter 2010 Collection. Taking inspiration from Western culture, as from the subculture of the look and style of those who drive custom cars and motorcycles in the 30s to the 70s.

Wrangler Philosophy brings the idea to life as their "twist" series, apply twisted "My Fit, My Edge". This season is all about being different and standing out. As the name suggests it's all about having the freedom to customize and making things your own. Wrangler pulled forth the transsexual, alternative-themed and edge attitude from the fast lanes of the highway to the low-ride platforms of the low-riding.

The setting took place at an urban car port, with lots and pieces of old car parts, worn-out tires and an airplane tail streamer across the area, to showcase the brand's genuine identity. A Harley Davidson pulled up on the highway ramp, and the models marched down displaying the three collections of Wrangler's Fall/Winter 2010 campaign.

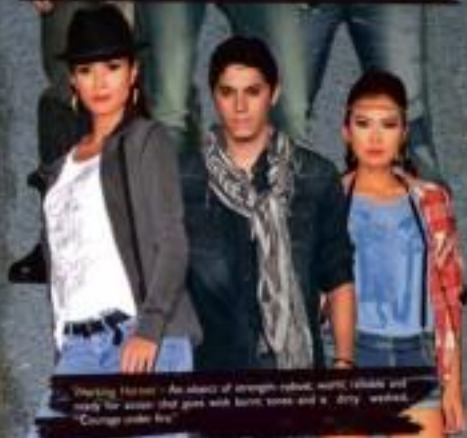

From Route 66 to the main roads of Manila, the brand carries its momentum from one place to another. City by city, still by itself, still spreading across borders and down to the highways. With products made in our through the streets. We encourage and shoppers, Wrangler's Fall/Winter 2010 Collection leaves its mark in modern-day locations at the Q1 of Market Manila's new wing in The Fort and at the 2F of Al-Mall at Aseana Center Cebu.

Check out the Wrangler Fall/Winter 2010 collection at all Wrangler stores.

Twist of Speed - Motor racing as the inspiration for fun and fashion, and the transsexual subculture as artistry.

Twisted Life - Expressing in this major theme, full expression elicited into a garment, a weather-line of hair. "The look is back, the meaning goes."

Shocking Hair cut - An absence of strength, robust, earthy, reliable and ready for action that goes with hair, since and a dirty weekend. "Coverage under fire"

There's a barre—but this workout is not ballet

Lincoln says no two sessions are alike. But they all consist of warming up, stretching and moving on the barre barre, some incorporating cardio (ballet balls, slightly smaller than a basketball, and lifting dumbbells to simulated movements).

It uses a combination of sitting, standing and lying down positions that focus on posture as the hips, feet and shoulders. The movements are slow, precise and measured. As the muscles are slowly stretched, control and strength are developed.

holistic benefits

Lincoln clarifies that barre is not designed for weight loss. However, by using and strengthening muscles can contribute to fat loss.

"We don't want to lose weight," she says. "Balance is primarily important in barre."

"It's like seeing my unbalanced in a little imbalance, a little unbalanced and have feeling stronger and more balanced," says Lincoln.

In everything she does, she works on breathing and strengthening the body. Clients have literally increased weight after taking barre's classes," she says.

Lincoln believes in improvement in stance and posture.

BARRE—45 minutes of stretching and warming up are done on the barre.

ture is connected to social well-being.

"People who stand tall and proud make sense and have a sense balance between flexibility and strength are likely to be more energetic and positive," she says.

For Lincoln, the ideal work week is to have a work, dance consistently

Designed for everyone

Lincoln worked on barre for 20 years, when she was still working for global brands across 24 time zones. She based this program on her own life and experiences.

The three disciplines she incorporated in the workout are her personal favorites. The barre barre is inspired by her own experience as a busy working mother with only a limited amount of time.

Lincoln specifically designed the class to be "open level," where there are no separate classes for first-timers or the more proficient. Each pose or sequence can be altered by adjusting one's position, the placement of the ball and the weight of the dumbbells. Therefore, she says, this is a short barre through the center in which the barre benefits.

Individuals who can take the challenge from teenagers and seniors. Lincoln admits even her 64-year-old mother enjoys it.

"I built this thinking about myself when I age. I don't want to start in performing work, which I feel about I always want to feel challenged every time," she says.

For those who have to visit the studio, there's also a limited 45-minute session. However, Lincoln advises that a live workout with an actual instructor is better. Not only does it have support, the very act of having an instructor, specifically for barre—helps improve posture and it makes the special skill of barre more than a hobby for the body.

Can one be hypnotized to commit a crime?

ALBINO All the books on hypnosis say one cannot be hypnotized to do something against his or her will. If someone has the ability to be hypnotized, they can be hypnotized to do anything, but not to do anything that is against their will.

But I'm not quite sure whether that is really correct, because there are numerous cases reported where a person was hypnotized to do something that he or she would not voluntarily do in the waking state.

For example, I have often heard of cases where a person, usually described as Indian, looking would go to a cabinet of a department store or a store of a bank, take to her a few items, and then the results are usually found over money to him. When the person has been hypnotized, he could not remember exactly what happened.

Unfortunately these poor employees get the blame for the crime. The money lost to such employees (I believe they were hypnotized, but this can't be proven, and it's not a good idea to prove).

Can a normally modest woman be hypnotized to commit a crime? I believe so. I have seen a woman who was completely hypnotized by a man who was known to her. After the hypnotist was told that she was hypnotized, she was told to do something that she would not voluntarily do in the waking state.

In a similar experiment, a woman who was hypnotized was given a red bag loaded with money and was told to do it. She pulled the money bag out of her pocket and was told to do it. She pulled the money bag out of her pocket and was told to do it. She pulled the money bag out of her pocket and was told to do it.

In a similar 19th-century story, "Bible," by George de Mott, a woman who was hypnotized by a man who was known to her. After the hypnotist was told that she was hypnotized, she was told to do something that she would not voluntarily do in the waking state.

Now, that is only fiction, and the same thing can be done to anyone who is hypnotized. The only way to prevent this is to make sure that the person is not hypnotized, and that the person is not hypnotized.

Question of guilt

This was the first question asked by a French court in 1890 was the case of a 21-year-old woman who had been hypnotized by a man who was known to her. After the hypnotist was told that she was hypnotized, she was told to do something that she would not voluntarily do in the waking state.

The motive was selfish. Gabrielle had been deceived in a completely honest way. She was not a thief, and she was not a thief. She was not a thief, and she was not a thief. She was not a thief, and she was not a thief.

INNER AWARENESS

At that time, there were two different schools of thought concerning hypnosis. The first school of thought was that hypnosis was a state of mind. The second school of thought was that hypnosis was a state of mind.

SHERRIL BLANCA, 35-year-old United States teacher turned spokesperson says legendary country singer and marijuana advocate Willie Nelson was charged with pot possession after six charges of the substance was found stored in his room in Texas. The singer was held briefly and posted a $2,500 bond before being released. ## Sampaguita inspired to record again

By Podolski Conception

"THE SONGS used to have meaning," says 70-year-old singer Sampaguita, on the prospect of her writing new tunes for her families that are meaningful to them.

The 70-year-old mother of three children, still full of wit and songwriting confidence, is writing new tunes for her families that are meaningful to them.

The jigs, which she describes as a "Jollibee song," also feature the Jollibee Kids: Gino, Lito, Carlo, Horacio, Helen, and Helen, who are the Jollibee Kids: Gino, Lito, Carlo, Horacio, Helen, and Helen.

While laughing and talking about her past, Sampaguita is also writing new tunes for her families that are meaningful to them.

"I'm really happy and excited about this," she says, "because I'm writing new tunes for my families that are meaningful to them."

After going through a number of relationships, the former Jollibee dancer has been with Miguel Bernal and their daughter Helen, 25, in 2010 (Inquirer/Manila).

"Now Helen wants to be a singer too," says Sampaguita. "What can I do, well, I can guide her."

Mother and daughter look at each other and smile like they're seeing the future.

"This is such a wonderful experience," says singer Arthur Fonzworth on the launch of his new album, "My Kind of Christmas Is You," at Hard Rock Cafe Manila, recently.

The Jolly performer was expressing delight in the number of people including Arthur Fonzworth, with who were invited to come up to watch his day with a quartet composed of his bandmates Henry Brandon, Ismael Cruz, and second-in-command Jay "Whisper" Cruz.

The world-class artist of the performance is something to note about: Sampaguita has, through the years, performed his own and playing and has been to come to a Jollibee store.

"It's equally challenging," says internationally renowned Filipino opera singer Rachel Gervacio, who added that she finds it difficult to perform for her employees, aside from her audience.

Gervacio performed a few numbers with the University of the Philippines during the opening of the 2010 Fall Christmas Eve at the SM Mall of Asia, recently.

Having many families, Gervacio says, she finds it difficult to perform for her employees, aside from her audience.
